INQUIRY CALL BY ARCHBISHOP

Archbishop Desmond Tutu has called for an immediate public inquiry into the death of the 19-year-old student, Miss Catherine Mkhabela, who died on the night of November 20, 1970, while in custody of the South African police.

The Archbishop said that the case of Miss Mkhabela was a "test case" for the South African government's policy of apartheid. He said that the death of Miss Mkhabela was "a gross violation of human rights" and that the government was "responsible for her death".

He called for an inquiry which would be "fair and impartial" and which would "investigate the circumstances of her death and the actions of the police and the government."

Jackpot prize goes to a bumper R1 000!

THE JUMPY Lottery, which closed on the 19th of October, has won the reputation for a bumper jackpot prize of R1 000! The winning ticket was bought by Mrs. M. J. Mkhabela, who lives in the Eastern Districts. She had bought the ticket for R100 and the prize was R1 000! The lottery was run by the Government and the proceeds were used for various social welfare projects.
