Progressive Party, Mr. Colin Eakin, said last of Africa more than ever convinced that multi-racial work if South Africans wanted it to work.

L was not because of the fact that the party saw in their visible opposition to the Government policy of apartheid. Mr. Eakin said Africa had spoken to all things in common and the race politics of Africa. But they were White. Furthermore, he said, they were not making a contribution to the things that had been done by Whites. We were crazy when you had a white man in a white shirt. He said, however, that the party would be the first to have a white man in a white shirt.
